Zelfcompassie Kristin Neff 2011-08-12 Compassie hebben met anderen, dat lukt meestal wel. Maar compassie hebben met jezelf is vaak een stuk moeilijker. Dat ontdekte psychologe en boeddhist Kristin Neff na haar pogingen om los te komen van de problematische relatie met haar vader. Steeds weer belandde ze bij verkeerde mannen en in relaties die haar niet gelukkig maakten, totdat ze beseftte dat ze pas liefde kon geven als ze zichzelf liefhad. Zelfcompassie gaat volgens Kristin Neff om drie dingen: begrip voor jezelf als je het moeilijk hebt, acceptatie dat lijden onvermijdelijk deel uitmaakt van het leven, en het onder ogen zien van je eigen emoties, zonder te oordelen.

20 Things to Teach Your Children Before You Die Tom Norman 2017-01-24 20 Things To Teach Your Children Before You Die Today only, get 20 Things To Teach Your Children Before You Die. Read on your PC, Mac, smart phone, tablet or Kindle device. This book contains proven steps and strategies on how to help your children become better individuals by teaching them moral values and skills, as well as teaching them about emotions and money management. This book also contains examples that you can relate to and activities that you may do with your children. The topics of moral values, emotions, skills, and money management are vividly explained to help you gain a better understanding of them. Here Is A Preview Of What You'll Learn Moral Values Prayers For Forgiveness: Forgive and Be Forgiven Emotions Skills Money Management Much, much more! Moral Values As a parent, it is given that you only want the best for your children. So before you die, here are some values that you have to teach them. How your children think and act are actually a reflection of how you raised them. Remember that it is your duty and responsibility to raise them in a good and healthy environment so they can be better citizens. 1. RespectRespect for oneself and others is very important. You have to teach your children how to respect themselves, other people, and everything else around them. They should know how to respect the elderly, the people in authority, their peers, and even strangers. This includes knowing how to control themselves and not say or do anything that might hurt others. In addition, they should have respect for every creature. You have to teach your child not to hurt or torture animals. You also have to teach them to respect Mother Earth by not littering or destroying plants. If you teach your children about respect as early as now, they will grow up to be respectful people who care about the wellbeing of others, not just themselves. 2. ObedienceObedience does not occur naturally in many people. In fact, a lot of people like to disobey rules because it makes them feel powerful. They feel that they are in control. If you want your children to be obedient, you need to train them early on. Educate them about the pros and cons of being obedient. Tell them about the possible consequences of disobeying the rules and reward them for good behavior. For example, you can tell your children that if they disobey their parents or teachers, they can be in trouble. They can get punished and humiliated in front of their peers. They are also no longer likely to be trusted again by their elders because of their disobedience. Moreover, when they grow up and they do not obey the laws, they can get incarcerated. Then again, you should not forget to teach your children how to differentiate reasonable obedience and gullibility. They should know when to say "no". For instance, if someone tells them to perform an unlawful act, such as stealing or destroying public property, they should know how to disobey. If an older person asks them to lie for them, they should know how to say "no". Being obedient involves knowing the difference between right and wrong. Before they agree to do something, they should know first whether it is right or wrong to do so. Order your copy today! Everyday Racism in America and the Power of Forgiveness Wilma Jean Turner Ed.D. 2018-08-29 This autoethnographic study examines my experiences as an African American born and raised in the United States of America, who—from the time I realized I was Black at age ten until the present day, more than fifty years later—experiences racism either overtly or covertly on a daily basis. I first explore my days as a high school student involved in a court desegregation case and the trauma I experienced in the hostile environment where White students openly showed their racial hatred for the Black students who would dare to enroll in “their school.” I examine my life as a college student in Alabama at the height of the Civil Rights Movement and my participation in nonviolent protests, especially the famous Selma to Montgomery march led by Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

Changing the World Through Children Ruth Dutting Witte 2019-10-17 The glorious seedling that is a child’s spirit needs to be protected, nurtured, and strengthened. It matters that children are fully aware of their own inner light, that they are able to call on their inner resources: creativity, courage, contentedness, acceptance, forgiveness, and happiness. We need to teach children at a young age to keep an open mind and heart; to maintain an awareness of their world and their impact on the people around them; to look at their influence in the grand scheme of things. In order to help kids achieve this, parents need grounding, community support, and resources in raising children with today’s rapidly changing and often bewildering expectations. Our children’s well-being and spirit of cooperation are enhanced through parent and community involvement in their education. By stepping into their world, we are able to see things more clearly from their perspective, and children come to feel more integrated in their community. Families get a taste of the learning that is occurring in our children and tend to support that learning by modifying their own actions regarding social responsibility, environmental awareness, and creative expression. In this way, we are truly changing the world through children. This book is a step by step guide incorporating best practices for developing a variety of family and community inclusive programs, and the means to support this method of teaching young children.

Each of these problems can be traced back to a single source-a lack of self-esteem. In my many years of working with children, I have found that the key to helping our kids succeed in life is building up their self-esteem at an early age. In this book are valuable life lessons that have been tried and tested for more than fifteen years by myself and other parents and teachers in their homes and classrooms. The subjects that are taught range from courage to forgiveness. The lessons are fun and uplifting and have profound effects on children and their self-esteem. When children feel they have value, they are happier and do better in school and in life. "I taught the lesson for PSE on Joy... Thank you so much for such a great lesson. De kracht van kwetsbaarheid Brené Brown 2016-02-23 Brené Brown beschrijft in haar boek wat het betekent om je kwetsbaar op te stellen in een wereld die gericht is op perfectionisme en het nemen van risico's zonder dat succes gegarandeerd is. Of het nu om werk, relaties of opvoeding gaat: het is eng en moeilijk om je kwetsbaar op te stellen, maar het is nog veel moeilijker om het niet te doen en jezelf af te blijven vragen: wat als ik het wel had geprobeerd? We verwachten van onszelf en van anderen dat we elke dag de schijn ophouden om anderen te laten zien hoe goed we alles voor elkaar hebben. Kwetsbaarheid is een emotie waar bijna niemand zich prettig bij voelt. We associëren het met onzekerheid en risico's. Toch zegt Brené Brown dat juist kwetsbaarheid de basis is van alle mooie dingen in het leven als liefde, vertrouwen en vreugde. Ze moedigt de lezer in De kracht van kwetsbaarheid aan om perfectionisme te laten varen, kwetsbaarheid en te omarmen en uitdagingen aan te gaan.

In Search of Happiness Ashok Gulla 2010-03-30 Every person has a right to be happy, no matter in whatever condition he or she is placed in life. Happiness does not come automatically nor does it remain with us for all the time. It requires nurturing with a right attitude and better understanding of our goals in life. Sometimes, people have attitudes and hold certain beliefs that bring a lot of pain and turmoil in their lives. The search for happiness starts with re-examining issues that bring us trials and tribulations. A simple way to have a fulfilling life is to love others. In today's world, wealth, professional status and society have a lot of influence on our well being and happiness. People feel wealth or professional success alone is sufficient to provide happiness; often, thereby losing balance in life. People talk about religion and spirituality that provide different perspective of human life. Each person is spiritual in essence and has inner spiritual needs to be fulfilled, to achieve peace, calmness and long term happiness. Spirituality helps us to resolve many of the problems of life, provided we take it with faith. We can bring happiness in our lives through having better values, understanding and a positive outlook. This book deliberates on each aspect of life, be it love, attitude, family, society, profession, wealth, health, religion and spirituality, and discusses instances where we tend to err in our understanding. The focus of this book is to raise awareness of these issues so that readers can understand the relevance of these issues in their lives; and realize that current perception and outlook needs re look.
