

Eu Asia And The Re Polarization Of The Global Economic Arena Advanced Research On Asian Economy And Economies Of Other Continents

Recognizing the mannerism ways to get this books Eu Asia And The Re Polarization Of The Global Economic Arena Advanced Research On Asian Economy And Economies Of Other Continents is additionally useful. You have remained in right site to begin getting this info. get the Eu Asia And The Re Polarization Of The Global Economic Arena Advanced Research On Asian Economy And Economies Of Other Continents join that we provide here and check out the link.

You could buy lead Eu Asia And The Re Polarization Of The Global Economic Arena Advanced Research On Asian Economy And Economies Of Other Continents or acquire it as soon as feasible. You could speedily download this Eu Asia And The Re Polarization Of The Global Economic Arena Advanced Research On Asian Economy And Economies Of Other Continents after getting deal. So, afterward you require the ebook swiftly, you can straight acquire it. Its so enormously easy and consequently fats, isnt it? You have to favor to in this look

Linking Trade and Security Vinod K. Aggarwal 2012-10-10 The connections between trade and security are hardly new. Analysts and practitioners have clearly recognized this interrelationship since the mercantilist arguments of the 16th and 17th centuries. Despite wishful economic liberal thinking that might prefer to separate the political from the economic, it is widely recognized that trade and security are fundamentally interconnected in the foreign policy of states. Over time, as new forms of trade policy have come into being and the international security environment has evolved, the nexus of these two spheres has grown more complex and scholars have struggled to understand their interconnection This edited volume addresses linkages between trade and security by examining the influence of security factors in driving trade policy measures and the corresponding implications of different types of trade arrangements for international security. Ultimately, the project shows that several elements—traditional economic factors, traditional security factors, and human security factors—can affect the development of trade agreements and unilateral policies, and that trade policies may have both a direct and an indirect effect on traditional and human security. The project focuses on Asia, a region where economics is increasingly important but many security issues still linger unresolved, as a primary setting to test trade linkage theories. It also provides a comparative perspective through examination of how the EU and US have used their trade policies to achieve non-economic goals and how these policies have influenced their security environment. Case studies in this project cover key trade institutions and agreements including the World Trade Organization, the Association of Southeast Asian Nations, ASEAN Plus Three, the East Asia Summit, the Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation forum, the Shanghai Cooperation Organization, and bilateral preferential trade agreements.

Genes, Trade, and Regulation Thomas Bernauer 2003 This book provides novel and thought-provoking insights into the fundamental policy issues involved in agricultural biotechnology. Thomas Bernauer explains global regulatory polarization and trade conflict in this area. He then evaluates co-operative and unilateral policy tools for coping with trade tensions. Arguing that the tools used thus far have been and will continue to be ineffective, he concludes that the risk of a full-blown trade conflict is high and may lead to reduced investment and the decline of the technology. Bernauer concludes with suggestions for policy reforms to halt this trajectory - recommendations that strike a balance between public-safety concerns and private economic freedom - so that food biotechnology is given a fair chance to prove its environmental, health, humanitarian and economic benefits.

European Journal of Political Research 2002

Geophysics 1963

MERCOSUR Report 1997

Resilient States from a Comparative Regional Perspective Fran ois Bafoil 2013 This book provides a comprehensive overview of the transformation which the newest members of ASEAN (Cambodia, Laos, Myanmar and Laos) and the newest members of EU (ten new Members from Baltic, Central and Eastern Balkan regions) have experienced during the last two decades (1990-2010).

Economic Development of Taiwan Frank S T Hsiao 2015-03-26 Taiwan's economic growth since the 1970s has roots in its pre-war development and post-war formation of the Pacific trade triangle. By highlighting the historical perspective of the Japanese linkages and the geographic vantage point of Taiwan–Japan–USA trade triangle, Economic Development of Taiwan features a collection of papers by Frank S T Hsiao and Mei-Chu Wang Hsiao. Published mostly between 1989 and 2002, their analyses on Taiwan's pre-war and post-war early economic history debunk the myth of the country's post-war rags to riches story and revalue the myth of "wise" government policy. Timely and accessible, this unique volume shows how early Taiwanese experiences of economic development can be valuable paradigms for emerging economies of Asian, African and Latin American countries in this age of globalization. Contents:IntroductionOverview of Economic Development of Taiwan:Taiwanese Economic Development and Foreign TradeTaiwan in the Global Economy — Past, Present, and FutureTaiwan in the Global Economy and on the End of its “Miracle”Japanese Colonial Linkages:Colonialism or Comparative Advantage? — On Agricultural Development in Colonial TaiwanColonial Linkages in Early Post-war Taiwanese Economic DevelopmentThe Historical Traditions of Taiwanese Small-and-Medium Enterprises — Origins of Taiwanese CapitalismThe Economic and Cultural Backgrounds of Taiwanese 228 Incident — An Application of Social Expectation TheoryEarly Postwar Economic Development:Product Life-Cycle and Diffusion of Technology — The Taiwanese CaseDirect Foreign Investment, Technology Transfer, and Industrial Development — The Case of Electronics Industry in TaiwanGlobalization of the Taiwanese Economy and US — Taiwan Trade RelationsJapanese Experience of Industrialization and Economic Performance of Korea and Taiwan — Tests of SimilarityEconomic Liberalization and Development — The Case of Lifting Martial Law in TaiwanDiminishing Returns and Asian NIEs — How They Overcome the Iron Law Readership: Advanced undergraduates or graduates in political science, sociology and Asian history students, and researchers of Taiwan studies. Key Features:Emphasizes the historical perspective of the Japanese colonial legacy, the geographic vantage point of the Pacific trade triangle, and the social and economic effects of the tragedy of the 2-28 IncidentEach chapter is self-contained and detailed enough to provide the background materials to those in other fields of studyThis book has well searched references in English, Chinese, and JapaneseKeywords:Economic Development;Taiwan;Colonial Linkages;Pacific Trade Triangle;Political and Cultural ChangesReviews: "The story of Taiwan's economic growth was once the metaphor for success among emerging economies. This new book, based on extensive research over many years, is a work deeply rooted both in economic and historical analysis. It shows the importance of colonial legacies; international partners and markets; technocratic expertise; and sustainable agricultural reform. This book reminds us of Taiwan's capacity for experimentation, innovation, and success in global markets. Serious scholars of Taiwan's — and the global — economy will want to read this book." William C Kirby Spangler Family Professor of Business Administration T M Chang Professor of China Studies Harvard Business School "This collection of papers provides a rigorous, insightful and systematic analysis of how the Taiwan economy developed from an agrarian economy to a high-tech power, and the role played by the Japanese legacy, democratization and the trade triangle of Japan, the US and Taiwan. It challenges the traditional Western view that the success of the Taiwan economy was led by wise government policies." Sheng-Cheng Hu Academician, Academia Sinica, Taiwan K T Li Professor, National Central University, Taiwan "This book challenges many previous interpretations of the Taiwan miracle and with support from a vast array of charts, figures, references and application of economic theories. Its scope and innumerable references make it a major resource not only for comparative studies of Taiwan's economy but also for research in developing Asian economies. Its conclusions can be disputed but not ignored." (See Full Review) Taipei Times

eu-asia-and-the-re-polarization-of-the-global-economic-arena-advanced-research-on-asian-economy-and-economies-of-other-continents

In Pursuit of the People Jessica Wardhaugh 2009 "In Pursuit of the People addresses these questions, and in so doing provides the first comparative analysis of left and right in 1930s France. Challenging the polarization of previous research, it reveals the hidden 'community of thought' that coexisted with very real political differences, as militants, leaders, journalists, theatre and film directors all competed to organize and depict the masses as the people. This book offers an original contribution to the study of political culture, and is essential reading for those interested in the symbolism, ideology, and activism of interwar France."--BOOK JACKET.

The Times Guide to Eastern Europe Keith Sword 1991

Southeast Asian Affairs 1997 Daljit Singh 1997

Housing, Welfare, and the State in Europe Mark Kleinman 1996 This text identifies a divergence in housing policy between a majority of relatively affluent owner-occupiers and a minority of badly housed or homeless. The well-housed majority have preoccupied public policy across Europe, and this trend has been particularly noticeable in Britain, with elections won and lost on the level of the mortgage rate rather than the level of housing output. The author offers insights into the future direction of public policy as a whole, the balance between economic and social goals, and the relative emphasis given to free markets and state intervention in a variety of countries.

If Memory Serves [microform]: Constructing the Democratic Project in Chile Joan Genevieve Simalchik 2004 Under the Pinochet dictatorship in Chile, human rights groups and victims of the regime, inside the country and in diaspora, embodied the counterpoint to institutional lies and violence from their position as a marginalized and persecuted constituency. As a significant byproduct to the human rights agenda, this sector retained memory and refused to relinquish truth to official state stories. In pursuing their own program for (re)democratization and the pursuit of justice and truth they preserved elements of material culture and created new evidentiary records which have the capacity to affect the composition of the national narrative. History, the story of the received past, and the ongoing (re)democratization project in Chile remain a site under construction. Many countries in Asia, Africa, Europe and Latin America have been engaged in democratic transitions following periods of dictatorship and war. Frequently, these transition governments have been the result of pacted agreements between divided constituencies in newly emergent, but unreconciled, civil societies. Prolonged exposure to repression, organized violence and war produced cultures of fear and consequent psychosocial obstacles to the construction of historical pasts. Remembrance and representation of massive human rights crimes present considerable challenges in any circumstance. In fragile transition societies, the social impact of cultures of fear can continue to affect collective memory and the recording of a historical past. Social psychologist Ignacio Martin Baro examined societies affected by dictatorship and war and explained that psychosocial trauma is composed of three constituent elements: organized violence, institutional lies, and social polarization. All three elements, and their legacies, influence the composition of an historical record.

Merit Students Encyclopedia 1980

Europe in the Second Millenium Rila Mukherjee 2005 Contributed articles.

The Political Unification of Korea in the 1990s Young Jeh Kim 1989 The first comprehensive scholarly analysis of the subject of the unification of Korea. Presents a systematic way to consider the unification issue from theoretical and practical aspects.

Toward a Unified Korea Young Jeh Kim 1987

The New Encyclopaedia Britannica: Micropædia 1986

Asian Nations and Multinationals Bernadette Andreosso-O'Callaghan 2018-11-23 Although Asia has been the world engine of economic growth since World War II, growth rates have differed sharply among the countries of the region. Still, all Asian countries have experienced some degree of growth limitation. Japan is facing the crucial issue of a quickly aging and shrinking population, a situation that South Korea is bound to face in the near future too. China, which still enjoys relatively high growth rates, is dealing with an exhaustion of its export-led growth model based on low wages, as well as huge and unprecedented environmental problems. In addition, food supply is still a concern for most Asian countries in spite of huge increases in productivity in the agricultural sector, the main reason being that global demand for food products has been increasing at an even higher speed. This edited collection focuses on the policies – at the macroeconomic level – and strategies – at the micro-meso economic levels – that need to be deployed in order to overcome the limits to growth in a post-global financial crisis and export-led growth context. It will be of interest to all scholars of economics, management and the political sciences who work on the economies of East Asia, and also to all those who work on the theme of 'transition economies'.

Resilient States from a Comparative Regional Perspective Fran ois Bafoil 2013-01-28 Organizations such as ASEAN and EU were formed to promote economic growth, social progress and cultural development among their members. This book provides a comprehensive overview of the transformation which the newest members of ASEAN (Cambodia, Laos, Myanmar and Laos) and the newest members of EU (ten new Members from Baltic, Central and Eastern Balkan regions) have experienced during the last two decades (1990–2010). It throws light on the different social, economic and political causes which support these historical changes. Emerging markets such as the Mekong region and Central Europe where new forms of capitalism are flourishing have been captured in this book. Their policies in privatization, regionalization, industrial growth that support a new and deregulated form of capitalism have been mentioned in detail. The author stresses upon the capacity and strengths of these two hitherto “weak states” to face worldwide and regional challenges. Contents:Introduction — The Destruction of Historical States:History and Geography Matter — But for What Kind of Legacies?Defining a State in TransitionConclusion — Clusters of Modernized States in Southeast Asia and CEEIntroduction — Coherence of the Public Policies: Privatization, Regionalization, Industrial Relations:Transforming Economies: From Planned Economies to More Legal Rules or Towards Nomenklatura Capitalism?Transforming Politics: States, Regions and AdministrationManaging Firms by Flexibility: The Lack of Industrial RelationsConclusionIntroduction — EU and ASEAN Enlarged and Globalized Regions:The EU and ASEAN: Cohesion Policy and Export-Oriented AgreementsState, Sub-State Designs and Cross-Border CooperationEU and ASEAN Enlargement: Enlarged Globalization DynamicsConclusionGeneral Conclusions: Types of Capitalism in Central Europe and in Southeast Asia Readership: Undergraduates and postgraduates in economics, political science and public policy; international agencies; government departments and think-tank bodies; policy makers; academic researchers. Keywords:Resilient States;Political Capitalism;Emerging Countries;Central Europe;Southeast Asia;Eastern Europe;ASEAN;EU;Mekong Region;Privatization;Regionalization;Industrial RelationsKey Features:Shows the transformation the

1/2

Downloaded from amaltee.com on August 19, 2022 by guest newest members of ASEAN (Cambodia, Laos, Myanmar and Laos) and the newest members of EU (ten new Members from Baltic, Central and Eastern Balkan regions) have experienced during the last two decades (1990–2010)Uses a common theoretical framework based on the approach of “strong states vs weak states”Emerging markets such as the Mekong region and Central Europe where new forms of capitalism are flourishing have been captured

Northeast Asian Cooperation Issues in a Changing Strategic Environment T S édéndambyn Batbai a r 2003

The American Geologist Newton Horace Winchell 1888 Includes section "Review of recent geological literature."

Politics and Society in Western Europe Jan-Erik Lane 1987 Politics and Society in Western Europe is a comprehensive introduction for students of West European politics and of comparative politics. This new edition has been extensively revised and updated to meet with the new needs of undergraduate students as they come to terms with a changing social and political landscape in Europe. This textbook provides a full analysis of the political systems of 18 Western European countries, their political parties, elections, and party systems, as well as the structures of government at local, regional, national and European Union levels. Throughout the book, key theoretical ideas are accessibly introduced and examined against the very latest empirical data on civil society and the state.

Asian Inward and Outward FDI. Alvstam 2014-04-01 Asian Inward and Outward FDI brings together both works from researchers in international business and economic geography. The book is aimed for both scholars with interest in macro and micro economic impact of new flows of FDI.

Malaysian Economics and Politics in the New Century Colin Barlow 2003 Malaysia is one of the fastest growing economies in the world today, and this book reflects current debates about the future directions of the national economy, polity and society in light of the late 1990s watershed period of financial crisis, the arrest of Anwar Ibrahim and the subsequent 1999 general election. Malaysian Economics and Politics in the New Century aims to answer questions about how the economy and society are organized, about how the benefits from economic development are distributed, about government's relations to major national institutions, and about the nature of the political process. With its focus firmly on Malaysia's future, this will be a volume of particular interest to scholars, academics, researchers, business leaders and policymakers involved in the Asian region, and Malaysia in particular.

Mennonites, Politics, and Peoplehood James Urry 2006 From western to eastern Europe and through different migrations to North America, James Urry s meticulous research traces Mennonite links with kingdoms, empires, republics, and democratic nations in the context of peace, war, and revolution. He stresses a degree of Mennonite involvement in politics not previously discussed in literature, including Mennonite participation in constitutional reform and party politics, and shows the polarization of their political views from conservatism to liberalism and even revolutionary activities."

The European Union in a Changing World Order Antonina Bakardjieva Engelbrekt 2019-08-06 This book explores how the European Union responds to the ongoing challenges to the liberal international order. These challenges arise both within the EU itself and beyond its borders, and put into question the values of free trade and liberal democracy. The book's interdisciplinary approach brings together scholars from economics, law, and political science to provide a comprehensive analysis of how shifts in the international order affect the global position of the EU in dimensions such as foreign and security policy, trade, migration, populism, rule of law, and climate change. All chapters include policy recommendations which make the book particularly useful for decision makers and policy advisors, besides researchers and students, as well as for anyone interested in the future of the EU.

976

The Dynamics of Polarization G. Roger Wall 1975

The Globalized City Frank Moulaert 2003 This book explores the dynamics that have accompanied the implementation of large-scale Urban Development Projects (UDPs) in nine European cities within the European Union (EU). It contributes to the analysis of the relationship between urban restructuring and social exclusion/integration in the context of the emergence of the European-wide 'new' regimes of urban governance. These regimes reflect the reawakening of neo-liberal policy and the rise of a New Urban Policy favouring private investments and deregulation of property and labour markets. The selected UDPs further reflect global pressures and changing systems of local, regional, and/or national regulation and governance. These projects, while being decidedly local, capture global trends and new national and local policies as they are expressed in particular institutional forms and strategic practices. The large scale urban interventions were deliberately chosen as reflections of a particular hegemonic and dominant expression of urban policy, as pursued during the 1990s. The book provides a panoramic view of urban change in some of Europe's greatest cities. The nine case-studies include: The Europeanization of Brussels, The Guggenheim museum in Bilbao, the new financial district in Dublin, the science-university-technology complex 'Adlershof' in Berlin, the 1998 World Expo in Lisbon, Athens's bid to stage the Olympic Games, Vienna's Donau City, Copenhagen's Oresund project, and Naples' new business district.These case-studies testify to the unshakable belief the city elites hold in the healing effects that the production of new urban mega-projects and -events has on their city's vitality and development potential. The book also analyses the down side of this development in terms of social exclusion, the formation of new urban elites, and the consolidation of less democratic forms of urban governance. The principal aim is to show how the production of these new urban spaces is actually also part of the production of a new polity, a new economy, and new forms of living urban life that are not very promising for a socially harmonious and just future for metropolitan urban Europe.

The True Worlds Johan Galtung 1980

EU-Asia and the Re-polarization of the Global Economic Arena Lars Oxelheim 2012 At the end of the 1980s, a tri-polar world comprising the US, EU and Japan emerged. Nevertheless, the economic turbulence of the early 21st century has destabilized this old order and the rise of other Asian powers has implications for the formation of a new economic configuration. This book discusses the probability of the different tentative global economic power balances to emerge, as well as the different contestants: the EU, China and Japan, among others. Organized into three sections, the first part addresses general and trend-wise developments with relevance to the outcome of the re-polarization process. Subsequently, three chapters focus on developments in China, India and Japan. Finally, special issues such as climate policies, corporate governance, social reforms and cross-border economic alliances are considered in greater detail, in relation to their implications for the outcome of the re-polarization process.

EU-Asia and the Re-Polarization of the Global Economic Arena Lars Oxelheim 2012-06-19 At the end of the 1980s, a tri-polar world comprising the US, EU and Japan emerged. However, the economic turbulence of the early 21st century has destabilized this order, and the rise of other Asian powers has implications for the formation of a new economic configuration. This book discusses the probability of the different tentative global economic power balances to emerge, as well as the different contestants: the EU, China and Japan, among others. Organized into three sections, the first part addresses general and trend-wise developments with relevance to the outcome of the re-polarization process. Subsequently, three chapters focus on developments in China, India and Japan. Finally, special issues such as climate policies, corporate governance, social reforms and cross-border economic alliances are considered in greater detail, in relation to their implications for the outcome of the re-polarization process. Contents:Long Term Innovation Waves and the Potential Dissonance between Europe and Asia (Lennart Schön)Obstacles to Global Financial Adjustment: Economic Re-polarization and the Euro Area (Michael Hutchison)Interregional Trade Facing Re-polarization: The EU Trade Negotiations with ASEAN Countries (Lena Lindberg & Claes G Alvstam)The EU Meeting the Asian Trade Challenge — From Follower to Forerunner? (Anders Ahnlid)The Growing Financial Interdependence between Europe and Asia (Andrew Chiu & Peter MacKay)Asian Currency Basket Peg: Feasibility and a Move Towards a Multi-Polar World (Raj Aggarwal & Cal B Muckley)The Rise of China in a Tri-polar World: Can Corruption Co-exist with Economic Growth? (Andrew Delios & Roberto Galang)Japan's Role on the New Economic Map: What is Japan's New Identity in the 21st Century? (Yumiko Okamoto)India in a Re-polarized World (Shubhashis Gangopadhyay & S K Shanthi)Chindia FDI in Africa: Implications for Europe and Re-polarization (Raj Aggarwal & Rym Ayadi)Low-carbon Revolution of Chinese Economy: External Challenges vs. Internal Barriers (Libo Wu, Weiqi Tang & Wenshi Yu)The New Financial Architecture: The Role of Market Discipline for Governance (Apanard Penny Prabhavivadhana & Clas Wihlborg)EU and Vietnam: From a Parental to a Competitive Relationship? (Ari Kokko)The Role of SWFs in Shaping the Neo-polar World: The Asia-Europe Perspective (Michael Keller)Stuck in the Middle: A Challenge of Re-polarization for Europe and Indonesia (Janti Gunawan, Elizabeth L Rose & Rebecca Piekkari)The Reform and Reconstruction of China's Social Security System (Chun Ding) Readership: Postgraduate students, researchers in international and Asian economics/international relations; policymakers and analysts, business leaders interested in the multidimensional development of the global economic power balance. Key words:Re-Polarization;Economic Order;Economic Power;Trade Agreements;FDI;Economic Reforms;China;EU;Climate Policy;Corruption;Innovation Waves;Monetary Union;Corporate Governance;Contagion;Financial Crisis;Sovereign Wealth Funds;Joint Ventures;AfricaKey Features:Contains research and analyses on the multi-dimensional re-polarization process by scholars from multiple disciplinesDiscusses the different drivers of the re-polarization processHighlights special issues salient to Geologistsomes of the re-polarization processReviews: “The book compares favorably to its competitors, both because of the breadth of the topics that are treated and because of the novelty of the research findings that are presented. It can be recommended to everyone with an interest in the re-polarization of the world economy and with an interest in the Asian economies.” Journal of International Business Studies “The book is an assiduous effort to provide fresh research-based policy suggestions in the world of re-polarization and in a time of profound economic depression. Given the book's sheer volume with 16 chapters, the fact that each chapter shows a high standard of scientific research is remarkable. The themes are well diversified and the allocation of chapters to each theme is adequate. Reading a scientific book like this provokes thoughts and gives ample opportunities to learn and form one's own ideas about what is happening, what are the challenges that need to be resolved, and how to do them in internationally-conflicting situations.” Journal of Asian Economics

Roads for Korea's Future Unification Young Jeh Kim 1980

Political Islam: Case studies : Africa, Iran, Europe, Asia Barry M. Rubin 2007 Organized into sections, this book discusses the origins and world view of political Islam and its relationship with issues of terrorism and democracy. This three-volume collection also includes case studies that examine the ideas, strategy, tactics, leadership and opposition to the movement both in the Middle East and in other parts of the world.

1888

Economic Dynamism, Openness, And Inclusion: How Singapore Can Make The Transition From An Era Of Catch-up Growth To Life In A Mature Economy Hian Teck Hoon 2018-12-21 As Singapore progresses from a newly-independent nation to a more mature economy, the economic challenges it faces have evolved.In the 50 years following Singapore's independence, the country tackled economic challenges relating to a fledgling nation, that included launching onto a path of economic take-off, and managing workers' wage aspirations without rising unemployment. It met those challenges, successfully transiting from relative poverty in the 1960s to relative prosperity today.As the country enters the next phase of its economic development, having now surpassed the US standard of living as measured by real GDP per capita, it faces another set of challenges: How to transit from catch-up growth arising from technological diffusion from frontier economies, to generating indigenous innovation? How to face the problem of a shrinking local workforce? How to manage a shift in job preferences with rising wealth and educational attainments?This volume provides a theory of Singapore's economic development. With a coherent theory capable of explaining how Singapore got to where it is, the ~~book analyzes~~ ~~the US~~ ~~Re~~ ~~lights~~ ~~16~~ ~~4~~ ~~1~~ ~~9~~ ~~8~~ ~~8~~ for the Singapore economy. With its forward-looking analysis, this book is valuable to students as it weaves macroeconomic data together with growth theory and highlights the interaction of economic forces with social influences and political institutions. It also serves as a good reference for other emerging economies that, like Singapore, want to avoid the middle-income trap, and for researchers interested in analysing the economic possibilities for current and future Singaporeans.

The Myth of the Nation and the Vision of Revolution Jacob Leib Talmon 1981-01-01

Sustainable Development and Energy Transition in Europe and Asia Bernadette Andreosso-O'Callaghan 2020-02-25 Asian and European countries have adopted different approaches to the conflicting priorities of economic growth and low carbon emissions. In this volume – based on the revised versions of papers presented at the 24th International Euro-Asia Research Conference held in 2019 – the contrasts between the schools of thought of each continent are explored thoroughly. Ranging from topics as diverse as city logistics, shareholder value and management practices, the EU-Japan Economic Partnership Agreement, China's geopolitical insights, sustainable agricultural development in India and the empowerment of women in Vietnam via microfinance, this book addresses sustainable development policies in China and Southeast Asia from many different perspectives.

Tae-Hwan Kwak 1990

America's Asia Edward Friedman 1971